RECTORY CONTRIBUTION

*"We ourselves feel that what we are doing is just a drop in the ocean. But the ocean would be less because of that missing drop".
-Mother Teresa*

A rectory is the housing that a church organization provides for a minister or priest to live in. The official name of a minister who lives in a rectory is a clergy member of the Catholic churches. Clergy houses are typically owned and maintained by a church, as a benefit to its clergy. The practice exists in many denominations because of the tendency of clergy to be transferred from one church to another at relatively frequent intervals. Catholic clergy houses in particular may be lived in by several priests from a parish. Clergy houses frequently serve as the administrative office of the local parish as well as a residence.

I am thankful to you all, for deciding to buy a rectory for our church. It is a very important step for the future growth of our church. As you know our present facility for CCD class is not really sufficient because of the increased number of students. If the priest changes his residence from the church, the present facility can be used for this purpose. A rectory for the church was really a long term dream of our parish and it's going to bear fruit on 11th March 2019 as the closing date is then scheduled.

As I announced in the church if you are generous enough to contribute to the building fund now we can buy it without a heavy burden to the church. I know in every project you all are so generous to the church and I am counting on your wholehearted support for this genuine project too. The money you donate for this purpose will be credited to your building fund. I know a lot of people have contributed big amounts to the building fund. We are expecting their support for this purpose too.

I request you all to cooperate with this project. Kindly bring your check on this Sunday or next Sunday. We are receiving checks during the holy masses on Sunday. May God Bless you all for your magnanimity. Thanking you in advance.

Fr. Suni Padinjarekkara
